What makes up the main storefront layout?

By default, all of your pages reference your 'main' layout - this ensures the same scaffolding structure for each of your sections/pages

The 'main' layout calls divides your page into the following screen areas:

- headercalls the 'header' section - breadcrumbcalls the 'breadcrumb' section - footer calls the 'footer' section - cookie barcalls the 'cookie-bar' section - contentpoints back to the page (twig file) from which layout was called.

The main layout uses Aero Sections
